LAUGH IT OFF

Eight-year-old Sally brought her report card home from school. Her marks were good...mostly A's and a couple of B's.

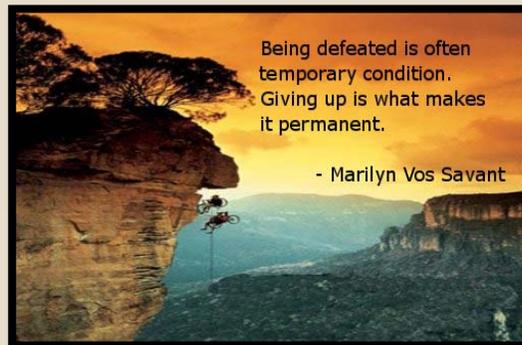

However, her teacher had written across the bottom: 'Sally is a smart little girl, but she has one fault. She talks too much in school. I have an idea I am going to try, which I think may break her of the habit.'

Sally's dad signed her report card, putting a note on the back: 'Please let me know if your idea works on Sally because I would like to try it out on her mother.'

A mom calls out to her son "Harry! Wake up! You'll be late for school."

The son replies, "Mom I don't want to go to school! The teachers hate me and also the students hate me! Give me two reasons I should go!"

The mom says back, "First, you are 52 years old and second "because you're the principal!"

HOW TO BE A GO GETTER?

A person who craves to achieve success and constantly works towards achieving the goal, a short term or a long term is known as a GO GETTER. Here are few of the qualities which makes one a go getter.

1. They have long-term goals

They know what they want out of life. They aren't afraid to paint a vision of their ideal future and use it as a guiding compass.

2. They show up every day

Even when they don't feel the best, even when it seems like a great day to skip out. Go-getters have to be disciplined. They put in time (even if it's just a wee bit) each day to move closer to their long-term goals. They understand that mastery of any craft entails daily practice.

3. They count their victories

They don't motivate themselves by focusing on some magical celebration at the end of the road. They pat themselves on the back each day for small achievements.

4. They do what they love

No one has ever realized greatness doing something that didn't fire them up. Go-getters are passionate about what they do and are excited to work on something they care about.

5. They have support

They have solid mentorship and surround themselves with like-minded, ambitious people. They realize the importance of choosing friends carefully and seek out mutually encouraging relationships.

6. They are courageous

No space is available in the mind of a go-getter for timidity. They experience fear just like everyone else, but they learned a long time ago to do what they are afraid to do.

7. They possess an iron resolve

Quitting is never an option when the go-getter is pursuing something he or she really loves. Even on days when motivation runs low or pessimism creeps in, they put their heads down and get their hands dirty.
